

FXB is an international development organization. Its mission is to provide the poorest of the poor families with the tools and support they need to become self-sufficient and give their children a future. The FXBVillage Model tackles the five drivers of poverty eradication: nutrition, health, education, housing and income.

Meet our happy FXBVillage participant Gaudentius! After joining the program, the HIV positive widow was given medical and nutritional assistance as well as capital to start a small business. Also, her children went back to school. Read the full story and sign up to show your support here! <http://bit.ly/28MCe7w>

Finding Inspiration in Rwanda
Gaudentius was born in 1968 and got married shortly after finishing school. Unaware that her husband was having a relationship with another woman,...

A year after the devastating earthquake, Nepal is still in rubble. The sad situation reminds us what Alicia Ely Yamin at the FXB Center at Harvard University believes: we should adopt the human rights-based approaches to development, so that governments can be held accountable. <http://bit.ly/1XQUU0>

Patience wears thin among Nepal quake survivors as calls for help go unheeded

A year after Nepal's worst earthquake since 1934, and with aid from government and agencies scarce, villagers in Sindhupalchowk are turning to relatives abroad
